

The Scanned Document Test.

This page exists only as a picture of text. A normal PDF reader finds no text layer here at all. Optical character recognition must read the pixels themselves to recover these sentences.

Page two of the scan.

If you can hear this sentence spoken aloud, the OCR pipeline works end to end on the graphics card.